

Fractal Scape wins 2026 iF Design Award

Fractal Design is proud to announce that its Scape Gaming Headset has been honored with the prestigious iF Design Award 2026. This achievement marks the second consecutive year the brand has received such recognition, following its 2025 win for the Refine gaming chair.

For more than 70 years, the iF Design Award has set the standard for innovation and design excellence across industries. This year's competition received over 10,000 submissions from 68 countries, with Scape selected by an international jury of 129 experts for its thoughtful integration of form, functionality, and user-centered engineering.

"Scape was never intended to be just another premium headset. Our team set out to create a complete experience, built for the grown-up gamer and designed to feel at home in modern spaces. From day one, it was recognized as a strong new alternative to long-established competitors, earning awards and being named one of the best new products of 2025 by leading media and influencers. That early recognition reflects Fractal's ability to build trust in a new category in a short time. Receiving the iF Design Award is a meaningful acknowledgment of the team's dedication, and something we are very proud of."

- Alexander Ernyrd, CMO, Fractal Design

The Scape Gaming Headset is a premium wireless headset that blends comfort, performance, and Scandinavian design. Created for immersive and uninterrupted gameplay, it features a lightweight frame, soft touch materials, and durable metal alloy accents for a perfectly balanced fit. Scape includes a dedicated charging stand that keeps the headset powered and elegantly displayed - always ready for the next session. Designed to elevate any gaming setup, Scape seamlessly integrates into the Fractal ecosystem and complements the full product lineup.
