

Paxman publishes newsletter on AMA resolutions to advocate for universal insurance coverage of scalp cooling

Today, Paxman publishes the June issue of its newsletter aimed at shareholders, investors and other interested parties.

This month's issue highlights that the American Medical Association (AMA) resolved to advocate for and seek through legislation and/or regulation, universal insurance coverage for scalp cooling therapy at the annual meeting for its principal policy-making body House of Delegates (HOD). At the meeting, AMA also resolved to work with consumer and advocacy groups to challenge insurers on medical necessity denials for scalp cooling therapy and encourage appeals of such decisions.

The newsletter also includes information on that Paxman celebrated five successful years in the US at the recent ASCO annual meeting, this month's orders and installations in the US, the UK and rest of the world including 10 systems to Japan, that Paxman won the National Medilink UK Award for Outstanding Achievement, and the fourth episode of the Changing the Face of Cancer podcast where the chemotherapy side effect CIPN is discussed.
