

Danish company Harper & Vedel joins XPartners

XPartners is strengthening its position in Denmark and welcomes Harper & Vedel to the group. The company provides high-end client-side advisory in process development and design for biotechnology and pharmaceuticals, from strategic pre-studies to project execution.

Harper & Vedel was founded in 2012, is based in Gentofte and employs 26 full-time consultants. The company delivers advanced process and engineering services to clients in biotechnology, pharmaceuticals, nutraceuticals, food and specialty chemicals, with a focus on advisory from early strategy through to operational optimization. In the most recent financial year, the company generated approximately DKK 40 million in revenue.

“We are very pleased to welcome Harper & Vedel to XPartners. They add high-caliber process expertise to our Danish platform and complement our existing companies with early value-chain advisory and strong commercial governance. Together, we can create even greater client value in a sector of strategic importance to the Danish economy,” says Rasmus Ødum, Managing Director, XPartners Denmark.

The company’s client base consists of leading Nordic life science players with long-term investment plans, providing stable demand and strong conditions for integrated deliveries within the group.

“We look forward to becoming part of XPartners and continuing to develop our services together with more specialists. With a solid client base and highquality standards, we can contribute proven process expertise while further strengthening long-term partnerships with our clients,” says Lene Holmskov, Managing Partner, Harper & Vedel.
