

Far Far West delivers strong initial sales on Steam with over 500,000 units sold the first days after launch

Enad Global 7 (“EG7”) today announces that Far Far West, the western-themed co-op action title developed by Evil Raptor and published by Fireshine Games, has delivered a strong initial sales performance following its Early Access launch on Steam, April 28.

The title surpassed 500,000 units sold over its first weekend, including over 100,000 copies sold within the first 24 hours, supported by strong player engagement and positive reception. Since launch, the game has ranked among the top 5 best-selling titles on Steam.

At launch, Far Far West had accumulated more than 700,000 wishlists, reflecting growing player interest driven by multiple closed and open beta phases, as well as a strong performance during February’s Steam Next Fest.

Early player engagement has been robust, with the game reaching more than 47,000 concurrent players during its first days on Steam. The title currently holds a user review score of 96 percent from more than 15,000 reviews, classified as “overwhelmingly positive”, indicating very strong player satisfaction.

Far Far West is a co-op action experience set in a stylized western world, where players take on the role of bounty hunters facing supernatural enemies. The game combines cooperative gameplay, progression systems, and replayability through randomized encounters and reward-driven mechanics.

The game is currently available in Early Access, with Evil Raptor and Fireshine Games planning to continue development through ongoing content updates and feature expansions, guided by community feedback.
