Descriptions of internal control procedures and risk management

Internal control

The purpose of internal control is to ensure the efficiency and productivity of Modulight's operations, the reliability of financial and operational management reporting, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations and internal guidelines in the company.

Internal control is an essential part of managing the company's business and in ensuring the achievement of its business objectives. The company strives to organize internal control efficiently so that deviations from the company's goals are detected as early as possible or can be prevented.

Modulight's internal control comprises the internal control policy approved by the Board of Directors, as well as the decision-making and approval procedures, control points defined uniformly in different processes, as well as their monitoring and undertaking of corrective measures.

Risk assessment forms the basis for effective internal control. The monitoring functions ensure that as few of the identified risks as possible materialize. Measures of internal control are directed in accordance with and to the extent required by the risks identified by the company.

Risk management

Modulight's risk management is guided by the company's risk management policy. Risk management creates the operating conditions in which business-related risks are managed comprehensively and systematically at all levels of the organization. The principle is to identify risks, assess their magnitude and significance, define risk mitigation measures and decide on their implementation and monitor their impact. The company implements internal risk management by process area, starting from the strategy. The risk analysis is updated each time a new risk is identified, and it is processed in a risk analysis process that brings them up for consideration by the management team and/or the responsible person involved, if necessary. If necessary, the risks are brought before the Board of Directors.

Modulight uses a Group-level risk assessment and monitoring model and conducts an annual comprehensive risk assessment, which assesses the most significant risks to the company's strategy and other objectives, as well as their likelihood and impact on the business, and maps out risk management measures. If necessary, the risk assessments are updated, for example, for the risk assessments of half-year reports and business reviews.

Modulight's Board of Directors is responsible for defining the company's risk-taking level, taking strategic risks, and monitoring the results of risk management and assessing its effectiveness.

Risk reporting

Risks and related changes are reported to the company's Board of Directors. Modulight's Board of Directors discusses the most material risks, their management and assesses the effectiveness of risk management at least once a year.

Financial and operational risks, risks related to sustainability and related risk management activities are regularly reported to the Management Team. The Board of Directors discusses strategic risks annually in connection with the company's strategy discussion. The Company's CEO is responsible for organizing risk management, allocating risk management resources and evaluating the set risk management principles. The CEO reports the findings to the Board of Directors as part of the CEO's reporting.

Key risks and risk management activities are reported annually in the annual report, half-year report and business reviews and on a case-by-case basis, as appropriate. By defining risk management and identifying risks, the company aims to target internal control measures where they are best able to prevent the realization of the company's material risks.

Other information to be disclosed in the Corporate Governance Statement
