White Pearl Technology Group AB ("WPTG" or the "Group") today announces that its co-founder and largest shareholder, Ebrahim Laher, has been appointed Chief Executive Officer (CEO), effective immediately. He succeeds Marco Marangoni, who steps down after leading the Group through a transformative phase of international growth and operational development. Most recently, Ebrahim has served as Strategic Advisor for the Group, working closely with management and the Board on strategic initiatives, acquisitions, and business development. Outgoing CEO Marco Marangoni transitions to Strategic Advisor and Board Member, ensuring continuity as White Pearl Technology Group continues executing its long-term growth strategy.

About Ebrahim Laher

As co-founder of White Pearl Technology Group, he has played a pivotal role in shaping the Group's strategy, culture, international expansion and acquisition agenda. In recent years, he has served as Strategic Advisor, supporting the Group's continued development and long-term strategic direction.

The Group's strategic direction remains unchanged. Under Ebrahim Laher's leadership, WPTG will continue executing its long-term growth strategy by combining organic expansion with selective acquisitions while further strengthening its position as a global provider of digital transformation services, enterprise software, cybersecurity, cloud, AI and managed services.

Marco Marangoni's new role

Marco Marangoni will transition from his current executive role into the position of Strategic Advisor and Board Member. In this new role, Marco will continue to support the Group at a strategic level, with a particular focus on continuity, client and partner relationships, acquisition integration, operational knowledge transfer, and long-term value creation. His continued involvement ensures that the business retains his deep institutional knowledge, experience, and understanding of the Group's history, culture, and growth journey.

The Board wishes to express its sincere appreciation to Marco for his leadership, commitment, and contribution to the development of the Group.
