Fasadgruppen starts cooperation with Fastum for energy renovations

Fasadgruppen has through its subsidiary SmartFront entered into a cooperation agreement with Fastum regarding energy audits and property renovations with a focus on the building envelope and the SmartFront method.

Fastum is a full-service provider of property management services, primarily to tenant-owner associations. Through the cooperation agreement, Fastum will recommend and market energy audits and various renovation measures that improve energy performance to its customers. Fasadgruppen will offer support to Fastum in the training and development of personnel in the services covered by the co-operation.

Peter Forsberg, Product Manager SmartFront, said: "We are pleased to initiate this co-operation with Fastum, which aims to help Fastum's customers make informed decisions to improve the energy performance of their properties. By conducting energy audits, tenant-owner associations get a clear picture of the energy savings that can be achieved with different types of measures. Depending on the type and condition of the property, it can be anything from window renovation to an upgrade of both the façade and ventilation."

The EU is expected to decide shortly on the final revision of the Energy Performance of Buildings Directive (EPBD). The directive is expected to require many tenant-owner associations to carry out energy renovations to meet new, stricter energy efficiency requirements.
