JUMPGATE FINALIZES EXTERNAL FINANCING OF 19 MSEK FOR NEW GAME PROJECT WITH TROPHY GAMES

As announced in December last year, Jumpgate subsidiary Tivola Games GmbH has entered into a development agreement for a yet to be announced mobile game. Jumpgate is pleased to announce that the publisher of the game is Trophy Games Development A/S ("Trophy Games") and the total budget for the project of ca 19 million SEK has now been finalized. The project budget is divided between 10.5 million SEK being provided by Trophy Games and 8.5 million SEK being provided by funds from the German federal programme for game co-financing.

The project duration is 15 months with a planned start in mid-March 2026. The project will primarily be executed by Tivola Games with some support from the Publisher. The partnership centers on the creation of a yet-to-be-announced mobile game focused on managing, breeding and competing with horses. Jumpgate has a significant upside through revenue share after the Publisher has recovered its development costs.

"It's great to be able to announce that we have finalized the external financing for this new project. We are pleased to add another exciting project to the pipeline after the successful recent launch of Star Trek: Voyager – Across the Unknown and look forward to working with Trophy Games. We are also grateful for the continued support from the German public funding program, which allows us to maintain a significant upside in the project while covering the development costs through external funding. More information about the project will be released in due time", says Florian Bohn, CFO/COO Jumpgate AB and MD Tivola Games.

"We are thrilled to partner with Tivola Games and Jumpgate on this exciting new title," says Søren Gleie, CEO of Trophy Games. "The horse game niche has a deeply passionate and dedicated audience and combining Tivola's development expertise with our publishing capabilities is a perfect strategic fit. The support from the German public funding program makes this a highly attractive financial proposition, allowing us to deliver a high-quality game while maintaining a strong risk-reward balance for our investors. We look forward to sharing more details about the game as development progresses."
