

Finnish project and construction management consultancy Proviko joins XPartners

XPartners continues to develop its Finnish platform and welcomes Proviko to the group. Based in Tampere, the company offers project management and construction consultancy with strong expertise in demanding public procurement and large infrastructure projects.

Founded in 2019, Proviko is headquartered in Tampere and has an office in Helsinki. The company offers services in project management, project planning, public procurements, design management and construction management, focusing on large and demanding public infrastructure projects. Its operations are particularly focused on transport infrastructure, the water and wastewater sector, and ports. Proviko has around 30 employees.

– Proviko brings strong expertise in public infrastructure project and construction management services and is an important addition to our Finnish platform. The company has a clear market role, a strong entrepreneurial spirit and a stable customer base. Proviko strengthens our presence in a strategically important area and creates good opportunities for cooperation with other group companies, says Vesa Koskelainen, Managing Director of XPartners Finland.

Proviko has established a strong position in large public projects in Finland and works closely with public sector clients throughout the full lifecycle of projects.

– We have built Proviko with great care for both the quality of our services and how we develop our people. Through XPartners, we gain access to a broader context and new opportunities for collaboration. We will continue to develop the company based on our own culture, way of working and high-quality project management expertise, says Hannu Kokkonen, co-founder of Proviko.
