

engcon signs deal with Hitachi in order to increase tiltrotator penetration in Europe.

engcon, the world's leading manufacturer of tiltrotators, have signed an agreement with Hitachi Construction Machinery (Europe) NV (HCME) to supply engcon products to its dealers and distributors.

This mutually non-exclusive agreement is one of many ongoing projects for engcon to increase the tiltrotator penetration level in Europe and makes engcon one of the preferred suppliers to HCME and its dealer network. For engcon this is another step to make the tiltrotator concept and system known in Europe and is further proof that the tiltrotator plays a greater role in enhancing efficiency on site.

Krister Blomgren, CEO engcon, is very pleased with the agreement:

"This gives engcon an opportunity to expand to markets in Europe where we are not currently represented. We look forward to the collaboration that will benefit both parties and our customers in the long term."
