

Goobit partners with Koinly, the world's leading crypto tax calculator

Goobit Group AB (publ)'s subsidiary, Goobit AB, has expanded its partnership portfolio, in addition to its existing partnerships with Divly, Monetax, and DLT Accounting, by collaborating with Koinly, the world's leading cryptocurrency tax calculator.

This collaboration aims to offer a comprehensive range of tax return tools and services for crypto transactions, making the tax reporting process even simpler for its customers. With these partnerships, customers with varying levels of tax return complexity can easily declare their crypto transactions and generate a K4 form.

"We strive to provide our customers with a seamless experience during the tax return period. Navigating crypto taxes can be challenging, and our collaboration with Koinly, along with our existing partners, streamlines the process. Partnerships like these demonstrate Goobit's commitment to empowering both individuals and authorities to comply with tax regulations," says Christian Ander, CEO and founder of Goobit Group.

Jane McEvoy, Global Head of Partnerships at Koinly, shares Christian's enthusiasm: "We are very excited about our partnership with BT.CX, as it enables users to calculate their tax liability quickly and accurately while receiving a discount on Koinly tax plans."
