Transcendent Group once again on the Great Place to Work top list

Transcendent Group is ranked as Sweden's 8th best workplace on Great Place to Work Sweden's annual top list in the medium-sized companies category. This is the 9th time in the last 10 years that Transcendent Group has been ranked as one of Sweden's best places to work. Transcendent Group is also the highest ranked company of all medium-sized companies listed on any of Nasdaq Stockholm's marketplaces.

“During the previous year, we have fought extra hard with several activities to further strengthen what really makes us unique – our culture! We improve in several of the dimensions evaluated; credibility, respect, fairness, pride and camaraderie. 2020 was also a challenging year due to the pandemic. Working from home and market worries have characterized the period, so it makes me extra proud that we are performing well in a year like this. Employees who thrive and feel good in their workplace also perform well, which means that Transcendent Group always delivers great value to its customers. This is proof that we are doing the right things and that we have a fantastic foundation to stand on, which is particularly crucial for a value-driven company in these troubled times,” said Martin Bohlin, CEO of Transcendent Group Sweden.

Great Place to Work helps companies evaluate and develop their workplace culture through employee surveys and cultural evaluations. This year, Great Place to Work® has evaluated 23,074 employees around Swedish workplaces. The organizations that are ranked highest by their employees end up on the top list of Sweden's best workplaces.
