

About Anders Silwer

Lieutenant General Anders Silwer, born in 1959, has a Master's degree in Strategic Studies from Air War College, Air University, Alabama, USA, and is trained from the Military Academy's Leadership Program.

Anders has been the division chief of the J 35 division and head of the tactical testing of JAS 39, as well as the Air Force Inspector with responsibility for the combat aviation operation in Libya and for MEDEVAC helicopters to Afghanistan. Anders was the Commander of Swedish Armed Forces Joint Operations Command 2012-2013 and ended his career in the Armed Forces as Chief of the Production Management 2014-2017.

Anders has extensive experience in positions within the Air Force, including leadership positions. In recent years, Anders has also worked as a board member and consultant for Nordic companies in cybersecurity. He is currently a board member of Advenica AB and Nixy Oy, listed in Sweden and Finland, respectively, and a board member of the Swedish Fortifications Agency. Anders is also a consultant for Nitium AB (an engineering firm in hydrogen), and has consulting assignments for EU projects in air traffic management. Anders also has an ongoing consulting assignment for W5 Solutions AB.

Anders Silwer is independent in relation to the company, the company management, and the company's major shareholders.