

Chordate Medical Receives First Order for Ozilia Migraine Treatment from Saudi Arabia

Chordate Medical has received its first order for the Ozilia migraine treatment from Janin Medical, the company's distributor in Saudi Arabia. The order is for two Ozilia systems that can be used for migraine treatment as soon as marketing approval for Ozilia's migraine indication is obtained in the country.

"Following the success of Ozilia for chronic rhinitis in Saudi Arabia, it is encouraging to see results also in the migraine segment. This order is a result of hard work by Janin Medical, who are also working on securing the registration for the migraine treatment as soon as possible," says Anders Weilandt, CEO of Chordate.

Saudi Arabia and the rest of the Gulf region have long been among Chordate's priority markets to demonstrate proof of concept, and Ozilia has been used for a longer period by several private hospitals for rhinitis treatment.
