Medclair adds a new recycling customer in France

Medclair has received an order from another customer in the recycling sector in France, in the Île-de-France region. The order value amounts to over SEK 3 million and covers an integrated solution for the measurement, monitoring, and destruction of nitrous oxide, including a service agreement. The contract also includes an option for further deliveries.

France is a key market for Medclair, and the order means that the company is adding another customer in the country's recycling sector. The deal is a clear confirmation of the demand for Medclair's integrated solutions.

"This order confirms the growing need for solutions that combine the measurement, monitoring, and destruction of nitrous oxide. The recycling sector is a strategically important area for Medclair, and we see continued strong potential in the French market. The fact that the customer has chosen a solution that includes both equipment and services demonstrates the value of our comprehensive offering," says Jonas Lundh, CEO of Medclair.
