

INVISIO secures SEK 145 million order for dismounted soldier systems

INVISIO has received a significant order from a new European customer for its dismounted soldier systems. Deliveries are to be completed during 2025.

The order covers INVISIO's personal communications systems providing a market leading hearing protection and seamless communication capabilities. The order, which includes the new INVISIO X7 in-ear headset, INVISIO Control Units and intelligent cables, has a value of approximately SEK 145 million.

The recently launched INVISIO X7 in-ear headset sets a new standard for usability, offering market-leading hearing protection combined with exceptional comfort, easy insertion, and crystal-clear communication—even in the most demanding environments.

INVISIO's control units enable users to manage all aspects of communication, accommodating both individual preferences and mission-specific requirements—core elements of the solution delivered to this customer.

Lars Højgård Hansen, INVISIO CEO, said: "This is another substantial order for our dismounted soldier systems. We are very pleased that our solutions are re-affirmed once again as meeting the very high expectations of users operating in the most critical and challenging conditions and that we can add another important customer to our network."
