

BIMObject announces changes to management team

BIMObject today announced the following changes to the company's management team:

- Christophe Carvenius has been appointed Chief Product Officer (CPO), with responsibility for Product Management, Research & Development and Data.
- As a consequence, Åsa Gylling Hallén and Ben O'Donnell will leave the management team. Ben O'Donnell has been appointed VP of User Application Development.
- The new management team will consist of Carl Silbersky (CEO), Alexander Dahlquist (CFO), Christophe Carvenius (CPO), Lotta Askerlund (Global HR Director) and David Kullander (CMO).

"In agile software companies such as BIMObject, where autonomous teams identify and solve customer problems together, the line between product management and product development is increasingly blurred. With these organisational changes, our aim is to increase the pace of product development even more. I'd like to thank Åsa Gylling Hallén and Ben O'Donnell for their contributions to the company's management team", says Carl Silbersky, CEO of BIMObject.
