

engcon appoints Country Manager in Japan

engcon, the leading global manufacturer of tiltrotators, has appointed Norio Takagi as Country Manager for engcon's company in Japan. Norio Takagi comes most recently from Kobelco Construction Machinery where he worked as Senior Manager in various positions since 2017.

engcon announced recently that the company started its own sales company in Japan. Now engcon is taking the next step by hiring a Country Manager who will be responsible for establishing and strengthening the company's presence in the Japanese market.

"We are very happy to welcome Norio Takagi to engcon", says Sam Ryan, Regional Director for Asia/Oceania. His experience from the industry will be invaluable to us as we grow and develop our business in Japan. There is a great opportunity for our products due to labor shortage and a great need for increased efficiency and productivity in the construction industry in Japan", he continues.

"I look forward to change the world of digging together with engcon. Their products impress me greatly and I am convinced that there is huge potential in the Japanese market", says Norio Takagi.

Takagi will take up the position of Country Manager in Japan on March 3, 2025.
