Nolato receives license to manufacture VHP products in China

Nolato has today received the domestic license required to manufacture VHP products in China, and consequently intends to resume production as soon as possible.

As stated in its published third-quarter report, Nolato assesses that total sales for its Integrated Solutions business area will be in the region of half a billion kronor.

As Nolato explained in a previous press release, in October the Chinese authorities introduced new regulatory requirements that include the manufacture of products in the Vaporiser Heating Products (VHP) area in China. As a result of this, Nolato has not manufactured any VHP products in China in October and until now.
