

OXE Marine Strengthens Strategic Capabilities with the Appointment of former Secretary General of ASD Europe, Jan Pie, as an adjunct member of its Board of Directors

Ängelholm, Sweden, 9 December 2025 – OXE Marine AB (publ), a global leader in high-performance diesel outboard propulsion, today announced that Jan Pie, former Secretary General of the AeroSpace, Security and Defence Industries Association of Europe (ASD), will join its Board of Directors as an adjunct member starting from the next board meeting. OXE Marine is widely recognized for pioneering robust, fuel-efficient diesel outboard engines designed for demanding users in the commercial and governmental segments. As the company accelerates its international expansion and deepens its presence in sectors requiring reliability, safety, and sustainability, the addition of Jan Pie brings significant strategic value.

“OXE Marine is transforming professional marine propulsion,” said Jan Pie. “Their technology aligns strongly with global priorities around safety, durability, operational efficiency, and reduced environmental impact. I look forward to supporting the company’s continued growth and helping expand its strategic relationships across key global markets.”

With more than a decade of experience representing Europe’s aerospace, security, and defence industries, Pie brings an extensive international network and deep knowledge of regulatory environments, industrial cooperation, procurement, and strategic partnerships. His background strengthens OXE Marine’s ability to:

- Build deeper relationships with governmental and institutional customers, especially within the professional maritime sectors.
- Navigate international landscapes related to EU-funding, and emissions-, safety-, and sustainability regulations.
- Open doors to new strategic partnerships across Europe and beyond.
- Enhance its profile among industry decision-makers and organizations focused on operational safety, efficiency and energy transition.

“We are pleased to welcome Jan Pie,” said Jonas Wikström, Chairman of the Board for OXE Marine. “His experience and network at the highest levels of European industry and institutions will support our mission to deliver the world’s most reliable and sustainable outboard solutions for professional operators. The appointment reinforces OXE Marine’s commitment to innovation, sustainability, and global expansion as it continues to redefine diesel outboard performance for demanding marine applications.”
