Soltech company Rams El in new projects in Gothenburg - order value of SEK 21 million

Soltech company Rams El has taken on several new projects. It is the schools, Änggårdsskolan and Bräckeskolan in Gothenburg that will get new electrical installations from Rams El, based in Gothenburg. The order value for the two new projects amounts to SEK 21 million. This means that Rams El in 2022 got business for more than SEK 120 million and the assignments includes electrical installation, solar cell solutions, alarm systems, lighting, power solutions and network installations.

Rams El was founded in 1993 and has since had a successful history and specializes in, electrical engineering, tele and network installations, service, and electrical support. Since the spring of 2021, the Gothenburg-based electrical engineering company has been part of the Soltech Group.

Rams El has had a successful 2022 with orders over SEK 120 million so far, which is approximately SEK 50 million more than what the company had in turnover in 2021. In addition to its core competencies, they have also been involved in several solar cell projects since joining the Soltech Group. The company has now won two new construction projects, which involve different types of electrical installations in two schools. Project manager Dan Schön talks about the hectic year and the new deals.

– It feels great that we have now been entrusted to carry out installations in two schools that are under construction. When we look back at the first part of 2022, we clearly see that the demand for electrical engineering, installation and solar cells is huge, and we feel confident that we are also well equipped to meet these demands. We look forward to roll up our sleeves and deliver world-class installations to our customers, says Dan Schön, project manager at Rams El.
