

W5 Solutions Secures Framework Agreement with European OEM Worth up to SEK 43 million for Advanced Batteries and Chargers for Live-Fire Training Systems

W5 Solutions, a leading provider of innovative defence technology, has been awarded a framework agreement from a European OEM worth up to SEK 43 million to develop advanced batteries and chargers for live-fire training systems. This significant agreement underscores W5 Solutions' position as a trusted partner in delivering cutting-edge solutions to the defence sector. Deliveries are scheduled between 2024 and 2027.

The project involves designing and engineering state-of-the-art battery and charging systems tailored to meet the demanding requirements of modern military training environments. With a focus on performance, durability, and sustainability, W5 Solutions is committed to supporting enhanced training readiness while upholding the highest standards of reliability and safety.

"We are honoured to receive this important agreement," says Joachim Hammersland, Head of Business Area Power at W5 Solutions. "This reflects our expertise in delivering advanced battery technologies that power reliable and effective training systems for the defence sector. We look forward to the next stages of this project and the opportunities for series production."

W5 Solutions' expert engineering team will leverage their extensive experience in defence systems to deliver products that exceed expectations for quality, functionality, and resilience.
