Gaming Corps today announces an agreement with Loto-Québec, the government-owned Canadian provincial lottery operator. Loto-Québec was established in 1969 and is the sole entity authorizing games of chance in Quebec. Under the agreement, Gaming Corps' innovative portfolio, including slots, Blackjack, Plinko and the proprietary Smash4Cash™-series is anticipated to be made available for players in Quebec during Q4 2026.

Loto-Québec offers lottery, sports betting, casino, poker and bingo through both retail and digital channels. Its online platform provides players with a secure and regulated gaming experience across a broad range of products. It plays a central role in one of North America's most mature regulated gaming markets, making it an important partner for premium content suppliers. The company employs approximately 5,000 people across its corporate offices, casinos, and gaming halls.

"This agreement represents much more than adding another operator to our network. It reflects the increasing recognition of our games among leading regulated operators and further strengthens our position in North America. We see significant long-term potential in this partnership and look forward to collaborating with the Loto-Québec-team to deliver quality content that enhances their offering and supports their long term content strategy. This is hopefully just the start of Gaming Corps' global expansion strategy with national and provincial lottery operators, as we believe our unique suite of content types can plug a clear gap of opportunity within the lottery segment" says Juha Kauppinen, CEO of Gaming Corps.

Gaming Corps, and its management team with extensive experience in the Canadian digital casino market, has committed to delivering a large number of innovative, high quality titles through its mutual distribution partner Light & Wonder.
