

Andrea Carr proposed as new member in Albert's Board of Directors

The Nomination Committee of eEducation Albert ("Albert") has decided to propose Andrea Carr as a new board member to be elected at the Annual General Meeting on 3 May 2022.

Furthermore, the Nomination Committee proposes to re-elect Jacob Møller, Richard Sandenskog, Helene Broms and Eva Nilsagård. Paul Meyer (member) and Peter Grytterhielm (deputy board member) have declined re-election. Jacob Møller is proposed to be re-elected as Chairman of the board.

Andrea Carr is based in the UK and has extensive experience from the EdTech market as founder of Rising Star Ltd and board member of several EdTech companies, one being Sumdog which was acquired by Albert earlier this year. In addition to these engagements, Andrea Carr has had advisory roles for private equity firms looking for EdTech investments. Andrea Carr is also a board member of multi-academy trusts and a member of EdTech trade organisations in the UK.

Richard Sandenskog, Chairman of the Nomination Committee said: "We are excited to propose Andrea as a new board member of Albert. Andrea has a unique expertise in the British B2B EdTech space as well as a solid network in the industry. With her broad experience, deep know-how and personal skills, Andrea will bring new dimensions to the board that will be valuable to further strengthen Albert's position in the UK market."

The complete proposals of the Nomination Committee will be published in the notice to attend the AGM. The AGM will be held in Gothenburg on 3 May 2022.
