

Egill Örn Sigurjónsson appointed new CEO of Solid Clouds hf.

Egill Örn Sigurjónsson has been appointed CEO of Solid Clouds hf., developer of the video game Starborne Frontiers. He succeeds Stefán Gunnarsson, who has held the position in recent years.

Egill holds an MBA degree from the University of Cambridge and a BSc degree in Software Engineering from the University of Iceland. He has worked in the gaming industry both in Iceland and abroad, including at the British game company Jagex, publisher of RuneScape, one of the world's largest multiplayer online games. Since 2020, he has served as a producer at Solid Clouds hf., leading the company's game production.

"It is a great honor to take on the leadership of Solid Clouds hf at this pivotal moment. Starborne Frontiers is an ambitious game with significant growth potential in the rapidly expanding global gaming market," says Egill Örn Sigurjónsson, the new CEO of Solid Clouds hf.

"Egill has long been a key figure in the company and has consistently demonstrated the ability to lead it forward. The Board of Solid Clouds is confident that he will guide the company with strength into its next growth phase," says Eggert Árni Gíslason, Chairman of the Board of Solid Clouds hf.

For further information please contact

Investor Relations:

Stefán Þór Björnsson
stefanbjo@solidclouds.com

Attachments

Egill Örn Sigurjónsson appointed new CEO of Solid Clouds hf.