

Q-linea strengthens management team

UPPSALA, Sweden, January 19, 2023 – Q-linea today announces that the company has strengthened the management team by including Anders Ljunggren as Manager Project Management Office, PMO.

"This appointment is a very important step towards increased efficiency within the company, while at the same time it strengthens our ability to run projects that include large parts of the organization. A focus will be on conducting clinical studies to strengthen our product portfolio. I am very happy that Anders is joining the management team, he will bring valuable insights and knowledge," says Jonas Jarvius, CEO of Q-linea.

Anders Ljunggren joined Q-linea in 2022 and has extensive experience in engineering project management, having worked at innovative R&D companies in industries like medical devices, industrial applications, consumer electronics, and space technology for the past 15 years. He has a track record of successfully managing B2B and in-house development projects, utilizing cross-functional team management skills and deep understanding of product development.
