

Acconeer receives first limited volume order for A212 obstacle detection application

Acconeer has received its first volume order for the A212 radar sensor outside the automotive in-cabin sensing market. The order originates from a customer in the EMEA region and relates to an obstacle detection application. The order volume is limited, but represents an important commercial milestone. The sensors are planned to be shipped during the fourth quarter of 2026.

Ted Hansson, CEO of Acconeer, comments: "We see strong interest in the A212 sensor across multiple applications. Over the past few months, we have shipped hundreds of Evaluation Kits (EVKs), some of the customers have progressed to buy samples for prototyping and now we are pleased to report that the first customer outside automotive in-cabin sensing has placed a limited volume order."

Acconeer's A212 is a multichannel Pulsed Coherent Radar (PCR) sensor enabling new advanced applications, refer to Product overview: A212 for details.

About Acconeer AB

With ground-breaking technology, Acconeer has developed a radar sensor that opens a new world of interaction. Acconeer Micro Radar Sensor, with low power consumption, high precision, small size and high robustness, is a 60GHz robust and cost-effective sensor for detection, distance measurement, motion detection and camera-supported applications with low power consumption. Acconeer combines the advantage of low power consumption with highly accurate pulsed radar systems of coherent radar, all integrated into a component with a surface area of only 28 mm². The radar sensor can be included in a range of mobile consumer products, from smartphones to wearables, but also in areas such as robots, drones, the Internet of Things, healthcare, automotive, industrial robots and security and monitoring systems. Acconeer is a semiconductor company and, as a business model, sells hardware to manufacturers of consumer electronics products. Acconeer is listed on Nasdaq First North Growth Market with the ticker code ACCON, Redeye Nordic Growth AB is the company's Certified Advisor (CA). For more information: www.acconeer.com.
