

Norwegian Protekno joins XPartners

XPartners continues to grow in Norway and now welcomes Protekno AS to the group. The acquisition broadens the group's expertise in design management and HVAC engineering, while strengthening its presence in the Vestfold region.

Founded in 2012, Protekno is a technical consultancy based in Tønsberg. The company specialises in design management, project administration, and technical design, with niche expertise in HVAC systems. Its client base consists primarily of private and public sector stakeholders in construction and installation projects.

"Protekno has a clear niche and a strong reputation in the region. The acquisition adds specialist competence in HVAC and project management, and opens up new opportunities for collaboration across several companies in the group," says Sonny Mirborn, CEO of XPartners.

"We look forward to becoming part of XPartners and continuing our development alongside other specialist companies. It gives us access to a wider network and new opportunities to strengthen our offering," says Tor Abusdal, CEO of Protekno.
