

Enersize appoints temporary finance function

Nasdaq First North-listed Enersize - which develops and delivers smart software, tools and services to enable energy optimization of industrial compressed air systems - appoints Thomas Bengtsson, former Chairman of the Board and interim CFO of the company, through an outsourced solution for the company's finance function.

Enersize already has an outsourced accounting function which for a period will have increased responsibility. Thomas Bengtsson will thus support the management team and the board until a permanent solution is in place for the finance function.

"We have analyzed our finance and accounting functions and see that there is significant savings potential. Therefore, we choose to add a temporary solution to have time to ensure that the permanent solution is as cost-effective as possible. At the same time, our finance function must fulfill its important role of supporting our business in the best possible way," says Anders Sjögren, CEO of Enersize.
