

Far Far West has surpassed 1 million units sold on Steam

Enad Global 7 ("EG7") today announces that Far Far West, the western-themed co-op action title developed by Evil Raptor and published by Fireshine Games, has surpassed 1 million units sold in less than two weeks following its Early Access launch on Steam on April 28, 2026.

The milestone follows the company's previous announcement that the title had surpassed 500,000 units sold during its first days after launch, and 700,000 units sold after a week, highlighting the game's continued strong momentum and player engagement.

Since launch, Far Far West has remained among the top-selling titles on Steam, supported by strong player engagement and positive player reception. The title currently maintains a user review score of 96 percent on Steam, reflecting continued strong reception from the community. The game recently received its first major update since launch.

The game combines cooperative gameplay, progression systems and replayability through randomized encounters and reward-driven mechanics in a stylized supernatural western setting.

Far Far West is currently available in Early Access, with Evil Raptor and Fireshine Games planning to continue development through ongoing content updates and feature expansions guided by community feedback.
