Maximum Entertainment AB: Provisional judicial pledge over shares in French subsidiary

Stockholm, 13 May 2026

Maximum Entertainment AB (publ) ("Maximum Entertainment" or the "Company") hereby announces that, pursuant to an order issued by the enforcement judge at the Tribunal Judiciaire de Bobigny, a French court has granted Olivine Holdings LLC ("Olivine"), a Delaware limited liability company and a Turning Rock Partners holding entity, a provisional judicial pledge over all shares held by the Company in its wholly-owned French subsidiary, SASU Maximum Entertainment France, as security for a claim in the approximate amount of EUR 41,959,620.86. The provisional judicial pledge was served on SASU Maximum Entertainment France today, 13 May 2026.

The Company understands that the claim relates to obligations under the credit facility with Turning Rock Partners.

The provisional pledge does not constitute a final adjudication on the merits of Olivine's claim. The Company is reviewing the court order and intends to take all appropriate steps to protect its interests, including, where warranted, seeking discharge of the pledge before the competent French court. The Company will provide further updates if and when material developments occur.

This information is information that Maximum Entertainment is obliged to make public pursuant to the EU Market Abuse Regulation. The information was submitted for publication, through the agency of the contact persons set out above, at 2026-05-13 15:55 CEST.
