

Quant announces senior management appointments to strengthen business development and accelerate growth

Quant AB (publ) today announces the appointments of two senior executives to strengthen the strategic execution, growth initiatives, and global business development of the company.

Anssi Marttila is appointed Senior Vice President, Business Development. With extensive international experience in maintenance services and industrial sales across multiple sectors, Anssi brings valuable commercial insight and a proven ability to drive growth. His expertise will play a key role in strengthening the company's competitiveness and customer focus.

In addition, Maximilian Furley is appointed Senior Vice President, South and North America. Maximilian has a distinguished career that includes senior leadership positions at several leading industrial companies. With deep experience in industrial services and a strong track record of business performance, he will contribute significantly to Quant's continued expansion and operational excellence in the Americas.

Anssi Marttila will join the company on November 17, 2025, while Maximilian Furley will join the company on December 1, 2025. They will both become members of the Executive Management Team. With these strategic additions to its senior management, Quant is well positioned to accelerate its growth journey and deliver even greater value to customers and other stakeholders.
