

Chordate Medical Presents at The Global Forum by Biostock 2024

Chordate's CEO Anders Weilandt will present Ozilia at Biostock's Global Forum on May 29, 2024. This event is one of several this spring where Chordate is participating to increase awareness of Ozilia among various investor segments within the Life Science sector.

– This particular event focuses largely on companies that are preparing to enter markets outside the Nordic region, and this aligns well with Chordate. We have already achieved success in several of our key markets and are now ready for the next step, says Anders Weilandt, CEO of Chordate.

Biostock's Global Forum is designed to connect Nordic growth companies with a global network of potential investors and partners, from USA, Europe, and Asia.

– Over the past few months, we have worked hard to introduce Ozilia to as many potential investors in Life Science as possible, and this is yet another opportunity for us.
