

Bufab recognised as Supplier Engagement Leader by CDP

Bufab has been selected as a Supplier Engagement Leader, earning a spot on the esteemed A List in 2024 by CDP, a global non-profit environmental organisation. This recognition honours companies that not only take responsibility for their own climate impact but also actively drive change across their supply chain. It is a strategic tool for future-proofing operations, creating business value, and contributing to the global climate transition.

"We are proud to be recognised among the leaders in supplier climate engagement," said Erik Lundén, CEO and President at Bufab. "This recognition reflects our mission—Peace of mind through creating sustainable and outstanding value—and the responsibility our customers and stakeholders have entrusted us with. We are committed to leading the way in sustainability by working closely with our suppliers to reduce emissions and building more sustainable and resilient supply chains."

This recognition further strengthens Bufab's position as a trusted partner in delivering sustainable solutions and meeting growing expectations from customers, investors, and regulators alike.
