WPTG launches wptg.ai, and positions as a global AI technology platform

White Pearl Technology Group AB (publ) ("WPTG" or the "Group") today announces the launch of its new corporate website, wptg.ai, replacing whitepearltech.com. The launch reflects the Group's strategic repositioning from a global ICT solutions provider towards a global AI technology platform, with AI increasingly integrated across WPTG's technology, services and international operations. At the centre of this strategy is the WPTG AI Factory, a full-stack model combining infrastructure and compute, data and MLOps, applied AI platforms, enterprise software and digital transformation with the Group's global delivery capabilities across 24 countries.

A unified AI technology platform

The launch of wptg.ai reflects the continued evolution of WPTG's strategy and operating model. The Group's established capabilities within enterprise software, cybersecurity, cloud and digital transformation remain core to the business but are increasingly organised around a common AI-driven technology and delivery platform.

At the centre of this model is the WPTG AI Factory, which brings together the Group's capabilities across the AI technology stack – from infrastructure and compute, data and MLOps to applied AI platforms, enterprise software, digital transformation and AI strategy.

Applied AI platforms developed and owned within the Group, including OneBrain and NEXUS, are delivered through WPTG's specialist operating companies and international customer network.

The Group's AI offering also includes Sovereign AI, focused on governments and regulated industries requiring greater control over data, infrastructure and AI deployment, and Industry AI, through which WPTG applies its platforms and capabilities to specific industry requirements.

Building on WPTG's global footprint

WPTG's international footprint provides the Group with an established platform for deploying and scaling AI solutions across markets. With 44 operating companies and operations across 24 countries, WPTG combines local customer relationships and industry knowledge with shared technology, platforms and specialist capabilities across the Group.

The launch of wptg.ai provides a new digital platform for communicating this strategy to customers, partners, investors and other stakeholders.
