Soltech Energy appoints new interim CEO to drive turnaround and build a platform for long-term profitable growth

The board of directors of Soltech Energy Sweden AB (publ) ("Soltech Energy" or the "Company") has today appointed Leif Göransson as interim CEO. Leif will assume his role on April 16, 2026. The appointment is part of a crucial investment in building a platform for long-term profitable growth.

Background and motivation

The board has concluded that new leadership is needed in Soltech Energy in the CEO role. Leif has proven experience from turnaround and change management assignments, which the board believes is crucial for Soltech Energy's current situation. His immediate focus will be to stabilize the business, improve cash flows and profitability, with the aim of creating a solid foundation for long-term profitable growth.

Incoming leadership

Leif Göransson has a solid background in running successful turnaround and transformation programs in businesses facing challenging circumstances. Leif Göransson has been interim CEO of Umia and before that CEO of Eltel Sweden. His experience of operating in public environments with extensive reporting and governance standards is well aligned with the expectations of Soltech Energy's board.

Outgoing leadership

In connection with the management change, CEO Patrik Hahne have, together with the board mutually agreed to step down from his position. Patrik will continue to work in the business during a transition period to ensure an orderly handover of his areas of responsibility.

Comment from the Chairman of the Board

Petteri Saarinen, Chairman of the Board:

"On behalf of the Board, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Patrik for his significant contribution over many years. Patrik has led Soltech with commitment and determination during a challenging period. At the same time, the Board sees a need for new leadership with experience in running extensive turnaround and transformation
