

Acconeer receives order of USD 400,000 for occupant detection in public transport

The order comes from JM Elektronik and relates to Acconeer's XM122 pulsed coherent radar module intended for mass production of occupancy sensors in public transport. Deliveries will be made continuously until the end of Q3 2026.

CEO Ted Hansson comments: "We are happy to see that the roll-out of this project is proceeding as planned, and the delivery of XM122 to Sensative via JM Elektronik demonstrates how our radar technology enables new, reliable and cost-effective solutions for smart public transport. We see great potential for presence detection in train environments where precision, robustness and integrity are crucial."

The order announced today relates to the previously communicated design win for implementation with a public transport provider in Europe. In addition to publicly announced orders, Acconeer continuously receives orders of smaller amounts which are not publicly announced as they are not considered to affect the share price.

About Acconeer AB

With ground-breaking technology, Acconeer has developed a radar sensor that opens a new world of interaction. Acconeer Micro Radar Sensor, with low power consumption, high precision, small size and high robustness, is a 60GHz robust and cost-effective sensor for detection, distance measurement, motion detection and camera-supported applications with low power consumption. Acconeer combines the advantage of low power consumption with highly accurate pulsed radar systems of coherent radar, all integrated into a component with a surface area of only 28 mm². The radar sensor can be included in a range of mobile consumer products, from smartphones to wearables, but also in areas such as robots, drones, the Internet of Things, healthcare, automotive, industrial robots and security and monitoring systems. Acconeer is a semiconductor company and, as a business model, sells hardware to manufacturers of consumer electronics products. Acconeer is listed on Nasdaq First North Growth Market with the ticker code ACCON, Redeye Sweden AB is the company's Certified Advisor (CA). For more information: www.acconeer.com.
