“With more than a decade of content behind PAYDAY 2, we want to give players greater flexibility in how they experience the game,” said Gustav Nisser, Head of Commercial at Starbreeze. “The subscription service makes it simple and cost-effective to enjoy everything PAYDAY 2 has to offer – whether you’re new to the game or returning to explore DLCs you haven’t yet played. At the same time, all existing DLCs remain available for purchase as before. This is about giving players more choice.”

The subscription service launches today and is part of the PAYDAY franchise’s anniversary celebrations. New players can also take advantage of a 95 percent discount on the base game, making PAYDAY 2 plus the subscription one of the most cost-effective entries into the world of heisting.
