

Addnode Group strengthens its software portfolio with AI-enabled facility management platform

Symetri, a company within Addnode Group's Design Management division, has acquired the operations of SpaceIntel, a US-based AI-enabled software platform for facility management.

SpaceIntel's platform enables organizations to manage facilities, equipment, staff and resources across multiple locations using digital building data and structured workflows. The acquisition adds software, a skilled organization and expected net sales of approximately SEK 10 million.

"SpaceIntel is a technology acquisition that strengthens our proprietary software portfolio. By combining the platform with Symetri's software portfolio, market reach and sales organization, we can scale a proven AI-enabled solution across our existing customer base and create additional recurring software revenue", says Jens Kollserud, Division President Design Management, Addnode Group.

The acquired operations of SpaceIntel will be consolidated as part of the Design Management division from August 2026.
