Maximum Entertainment Partners with Brimstone to Publish Sandbox City Builder Overthrown

Stockholm, Sweden (July 18, 2024) – Maximum Entertainment and developer Brimstone Games today announced today a partnership to bring open-world city builder Overthrown to market across PC, Xbox Series X/S, and PlayStation 5.

“We instantly fell in love with the premise and colorful world of Overthrown,” said Christina Seelye, CEO of Maximum Entertainment. “The building and co-op mechanics really fit with the creative and social aspects we love to see in a game, and we look forward to making Overthrown an incredible experience for players around the world.”

“We are thrilled to partner with Maximum Entertainment to see Overthrown reach audiences who love original and unique sandbox games,” said Rasmus Hofréus, co-founder and CEO of Brimstone. “The Maximum team has a wealth of experience publishing nontraditional indie games, and we are excited to see what we can accomplish together.”

Launching this fall into Steam Early Access and Game Preview for Xbox and PC, Overthrown will allow players to build, destroy, and throw nearly everything within the game’s environment, including other characters in up-to six player co-op.
