

BeammWave Interviewed by Redeye – Accelerating Industrialization and Volume Readiness

In connection with the Year-End Report, BeammWave CEO Stefan Svedberg participated in a conversation with Rasmus Jacobsson, Equity Analyst at Redeye, commenting on recent operational progress and near-term priorities:

- BeammWave is transitioning from a conceptual and prototype phase into an industrialization phase, with strong focus on production flow, testing and details
- The organization, products and supply chain are being prepared for high-volume production
- Existing customers remain key assets, providing technical feedback and supporting potential NRE engagements followed by volume opportunities
- BeammWave continues its active participation in 3GPP standardization work, strengthening its positioning within next-generation wireless technologies
