

Nocom becomes Scandinavian distributor of SurfControl's solutions for web and e-mail filtering

Nocom has signed a contract with SurfControl, market leading in web and e-mail filtering solutions, for the distribution of SurfControl's software in Sweden, Norway and Finland. SurfControl's comprehensive solution protects businesses from unwanted Internet content via the web, e-mail and instant messages. Nocom will also provide support services for SurfControl's products.

"The contract with Nocom is a part of our increased focus on Scandinavia. Nocom is a leading distributor in IT security and our collaboration opens exciting opportunities for us," says Chris Nutty, Channel Sales Manager (EMEA), SurfControl.

The amount of spam and unwanted web content downloaded to computer networks is constantly rising. The demand for quality solutions for content security is increasing to a corresponding degree, and the market for security products is growing strongly. SurfControl offers a comprehensive solution for content security. The products filter away viruses and other threats from the web, e-mail, instant messages and file sharing programs. The products control e-mail and web usage so that employees cannot – either by mistake or intentionally – break laws, rules or company IT policies. Moreover, network resources can be optimized through companies being able to regulate how the Internet is used.

"SurfControl further strengthens our portfolio for IT security. Their products are well-known and established on the Scandinavian market," says Peter Lämber, Strategic Business Development Manager, Nocom.
"Through us, our resellers gain access to the market's leading suppliers and software. That Nocom can also provide qualified support benefits both resellers and their customers."
