IAR Systems announces upcoming course dates for its education program IAR Academy

The 2015 course schedule for IAR Academy in Europe is now available

Uppsala, Sweden—December 4, 2014—IAR Systems® announces the 2015 schedule for IAR Academy™ in Europe. The popular education program includes in-depth training courses in embedded programming and is aimed at new as well as experienced users of the world-leading development toolchain IAR Embedded Workbench®.

IAR Systems' over 30 years in embedded development tools has given the company an enormous knowledge about C programming and debugging. In February 2013, IAR Academy was established to enable sharing of this expertise and help developers to further advance their skills. With this global education program and the company's high-performance, user-friendly development tools and extensive support offering, IAR Systems provides its customers with a complete set of tools and services for simplified, seamless embedded development workflows.

Now out is the 2015 course schedule for Europe:
