

Norwegian company Prosjekt & Enøk Partner becomes part of XPartners

XPartners is strengthening its capabilities within electrical engineering and energy efficiency in Norway and welcomes Prosjekt & Enøk Partner (PEP) to the group. The company is an established technical consultancy with extensive experience in electrical design, documentation and advisory services for construction, industrial and public sector projects, and adds specialist expertise in a segment with growing demand.

Prosjekt & Enøk Partner was founded in 2010 and is headquartered in Tønsberg. The company delivers electrical design, documentation and energy efficiency services for office and commercial buildings, residential and healthcare facilities, industrial plants, schools, private homes and sports facilities. PEP also has more than 30 years of combined experience from the onshore oil and gas industry, positioning the firm as one of Norway's leading technical advisors within this segment. Projects are primarily located in the Vestfold region and the greater Østlandet area. In the most recent financial year, the company generated revenues of just over 15 million Norwegian kroner.

"Prosjekt & Enøk Partner is a well recognised consultancy that strengthens XPartners' competence within electrical engineering and energy efficiency. The company's strong track record, including industrial projects and defence related construction, makes them a valuable addition to our Norwegian platform. This provides both deeper expertise and new opportunities for collaboration across the group," says Christian Nørgaard Madsen, Managing Director at XPartners Norway.

The customer base includes clients within industry, property development, the public sector and technically complex environments where demand is driven by increasing requirements for energy efficiency, robust electrical systems and sustainable documentation.

"We look forward to becoming part of XPartners and continuing to develop our company together with more specialists. While we retain our identity and way of working, we now gain access to a larger network and broader expertise. This strengthens both our team and our clients, and gives us a solid platform for future growth," says Morten H. Engesveen, CEO of Prosjekt & Enøk Partner.
