

Defensor appoints Niclas Colliander as Group Chief Executive Officer

Defensor Group AB (“Defensor”) today announces the appointment of Niclas Colliander as Group Chief Executive Officer. The appointment marks the next phase in the company’s development and reinforces its ambition to establish a long-term, relevant player within the Nordic defence industry.

Niclas Colliander is a former fighter pilot in the Swedish Air Force, with extensive experience flying the JAS 39 Gripen. He subsequently worked at Boston Consulting Group and most recently served as Managing Director of defence company Metrea Simulations.

Max Jägerbring, who has served as CEO since inception, will remain within Defensor’s management team and assume a central role as Chief Commercial Officer. In this capacity, he will lead group-wide initiatives and ensure that Defensor develops and delivers solutions aligned with the needs of its customers and end users.
