

VALUNO GROUP ENTERS PARTNERSHIP WITH BRIQPAY TO ENABLE CRYPTO PAYMENTS FOR MORE E-MERCHANTS

Today, Valuno announces a new partnership with the Swedish payment integration platform Briqpay to offer Valuno Pay as a payment method to e-merchants looking to accept cryptocurrency.

Briqpay is an integration platform that simplifies digital commerce through a modular checkout solution for both B2C and B2B businesses. Supporting multiple payment methods and offering a high degree of customization, Briqpay is used by e-merchants around the world. This means that Valuno Pay can now be made available to a broader range of e-merchants through already established technical ecosystems. Valuno Pay will also become available on some of the world's leading e-commerce platforms where Briqpay is already integrated.

"I'm very pleased about this new partnership with Briqpay, which is an important step in our effort to make crypto payments accessible in traditional commerce. Through this collaboration, we are taking further steps toward our vision of simplifying the use of digital currencies in everyday life", says Daniel Sonesson, CEO of Valuno.

"We're seeing increasing demand for crypto payment options among our clients, and this partnership with Valuno allows us to further expand our offering," says Sara Johansson, Chief Growth Officer at Briqpay.

About Briqpay

Briqpay is a payment integration platform that enables e-merchants to connect any preferred payment providers through a single integration. The solution is used by leading brands in both B2C and B2B across several markets. With a modular architecture, support for local payment methods, and full control over the checkout flow, Briqpay helps its clients increase conversions, lower costs, and avoid vendor lock-in.
