

Danish engineering consultancy All-Energy joins XPartners

XPartners is strengthening its Danish platform within functional safety and industrial engineering and welcomes All-Energy to the group. The firm has established a strong niche position delivering specialised expertise in functional safety, automation, and process and energy systems, with a proven track record on technically complex projects across the energy, marine, and industrial process sectors.

All-Energy was founded in 2018 and operates from its offices in Odense and Rødovre. The company delivers technical advisory and project execution across the full project lifecycle, from technical clarification and control system design through to commissioning, testing, and operational support. The firm specialises in functional safety management (IEC 61508/61511), automation and control systems, process optimisation, CE-marking, risk assessments, and technical project management. Clients are primarily within the energy, marine, and industrial process sectors. Revenue in the most recently reported financial year amounted to over DKK 11 million.

"All-Energy has built a strong position within functional safety and automation in attractive and growing segments. Their specialised capabilities within control systems, regulatory compliance and energy-related engineering complement our existing Danish platform well and add expertise in segments where we see clear long-term demand. There are good conditions for collaboration across the group, and we look forward to developing our joint offering to clients," says Rasmus Ødum, Managing Director of XPartners Denmark.

The firm has strong references from some of the most technically demanding projects in the Danish energy sector, including Power-to-X and large-scale industrial installations, as well as electrical and battery systems for marine vessels.

"Becoming part of XPartners opens up real opportunities to develop our capabilities together with other strong specialist teams. We gain access to a broader network, new competencies and a platform that lets us deliver even more value to our clients. We are proud to join the group and look forward to what we can achieve together," says Thomas Ovens, Director and Partner at All-Energy.
