

Palia is coming to PlayStation 5 and Xbox series X|S on May 13, along a brand-new Expansion ‘Elderwood’

Enad Global 7 AB (publ)’s studio Singularity 6 will release the free-to-play fantasy life sim Palia on PlayStation 5 and Xbox series X|S on May 13, along a brand-new expansion, Elderwood, available across all platforms. This expansion introduces vertical exploration and a new area to Palia’s ever-evolving world. Home to more than 6 million players to date, Palia will arrive with full cross-platform support available on PlayStation 5, Xbox Series X|S, Nintendo Switch and PC.

Released in Open Beta on PC and Nintendo Switch in 2023, Palia has steadily become the free-to-play, multiplayer, life sim adventure game of choice for gamers around the world looking to craft, explore, and make memories together in the home of their dreams. With nearly endless ways to make Palia their home, players can find relaxation and joy in every corner of this vibrant, heartwarming world. Since its initial release, Palia has released more than 24 content updates to date. Palia’s monthly update cadence has launched more than 800 housing decor items, seasonal events and minigames, trading and building mechanics, tons of style options, and immersive storylines set to a relaxing soundtrack.

With Palia’s arrival on PlayStation 5 and Xbox Series X|S, players will be introduced to the Elderwood, a dense and magical forested Adventure Zone filled with surprises around every corner. Elderwood offers players fresh ways to explore and gather with friends, bringing in familiar characters like Nai’o and Subira to guide players on their new quests. In Elderwood, players will search for new themed collectibles, hostile huntable creatures, such as the Ogapuu, and elusive ones, such as the Shmole. Additionally, players can look forward to unearthing Artifacts hidden deep in the Elderwood. Artifacts unlock a brand new equipment type called Relics, which will unlock your true potential by providing you and your party with unique buffs. Elderwood also introduces new artifacts, fish, insects, plushes, and decor to transform players’ homes in Palia.

Palia players looking to jump back in with their friends on May 13 can look forward to the return of Palia’s “Refer A Friend” program. By inviting their friends to Palia, Players can earn special in-game item rewards.
