

New project with existing customer

Divio has signed a contract with an existing customer with a total value of up to approximately 55kUSD. The projects are a part of migrating more future projects to the Divio platform and a result of the new offering, a revenue stream that will continue to generate revenues and also be a base for increased MRR.

Jon Levin, CEO of Divio: "Today we expanded our collaboration with one of our major customers and laid the foundation for further MRR growth along with our new offering. We are widening our offering as there is demand for these types of services and it will assist in bringing customers to our platform by providing this."
