LMK Group's CTO to leave the company during the autumn of 2021

LMK Group's Chief Technology Officer Alexander W Aagreen has decided to leave his role during the autumn of 2021 to assume a new assignment outside of the organization. LMK Group has initiated the recruitment process for a new CTO.

Alexander has worked as CTO since 2018 and built up the technical organization as part of the transformation that LMK Group has undergone over the past years. Alexander has now decided to move to a similar role in a company in another industry. His notice period is 6 months and LMK Group has initiated the process to find a new CTO.

Based on LMK Group's current scalable platform, the company will look for a candidate who can continue to strengthen the group's leading position in Scandinavian foodtech, where the technical development is key for the user experience and continued innovation.

Walker Kinman, CEO of LMK Group, said: "Alexander has played an important role in the transformation of LMK Group over the past years and I would like to thank him for his endeavours. We are now looking for a new CTO who will lead the work to continue strengthening the user experience while ensuring high efficiency in the organization with a focus on data and personalization."
